Crowdfunding Terms / Share Allocation Terms

Redmont Systems Corporation

1. Campaign Purpose

Redmont Systems Corporation is conducting a crowdfunding campaign to raise $10,000 to fund development, hosting, API integration, branding, operations, and launch costs for its software products and services, including the DC Legal Research Agent and future Redmont Systems products.

2. Offering Structure

The Corporation reserves 100 common shares for crowdfunding participants.

These 100 common shares represent 10% of the Corporation's initial 1,000 authorized common shares.

The remaining 900 common shares are Founder Shares representing 90% of the Corporation.

3. Target Amount

The target crowdfunding amount is $10,000. The Corporation may set a minimum contribution of $1 and may close, extend, reduce, or oversubscribe the campaign as stated in a public campaign notice.

4. Share Allocation Formula

Crowdfunding shares shall be allocated proportionally based on each participant's accepted contribution compared to the total accepted contributions.

Formula:

Participant Shares = (Participant Contribution / Total Accepted Contributions) x 100

Participant Ownership Percentage = Participant Shares / 1,000

5. Example

If total accepted contributions are $10,000 and a participant contributes $1,000, that participant contributed 10% of the campaign total.

That participant would receive 10% of the 100-share Crowdfunding Share Pool, equal to 10 shares.

10 shares out of 1,000 authorized common shares equals 1% of the Corporation.

6. Payment Instructions

Payment takes place at GnomeFoundMe

7. Acceptance of Contributions

A contribution is accepted only after the Corporation confirms receipt and records the contributor in the campaign ledger.

The Corporation may reject or refund contributions that are unclear, duplicate, improperly referenced, late, or otherwise inconsistent with the campaign terms.

Contributors receive shares only after the final allocation is calculated and recorded.

8. Oversubscription and Undersubscription

If the campaign is oversubscribed, the Corporation may accept contributions on a first-come, first-served basis, accept contributions pro rata, or reject/refund excess contributions.

If the campaign raises less than the target amount, the Corporation may still allocate the full 100-share Crowdfunding Share Pool proportionally among accepted contributors unless the campaign notice states otherwise.

9. Rights of Crowdfunding Shareholders

Crowdfunding shareholders receive common shares with the same voting and economic rights as other common shares unless the governing documents are amended.

Each share entitles the holder to one vote on shareholder matters.

Dividends, if declared, shall be distributed pro rata based on share ownership.

10. Risks and No Guaranteed Return

Contributors acknowledge that the Corporation is an early-stage DemocracyCraft software business.

There is no guaranteed dividend, profit, resale value, product success, or return of contribution.

Software development, API access, hosting costs, legal interpretation, market demand, and operational execution may affect the business.

11. Transfer Restrictions

Shares received through the crowdfunding campaign are subject to the Shareholder Agreement, including transfer restrictions, right of first refusal, recording requirements, and any applicable Company Docket requirements.

12. Final Share Register

After the campaign closes, the Corporation shall prepare or update the share register showing all crowdfunding shareholders, their accepted contributions, shares received, and ownership percentage.
