I. Data Collection & Integrity

Crystal Analytics deployed this poll at approximately 10:18 AM EST, November 9th, 2021 for the purpose of collecting approval trends concerning the election and pre and post-incident thoughts. This poll offered an incentive of $10 per response, regardless of political affiliation or response to the poll, covered by the requestee. The format used was specifically to gauge the damages of reputation towards the requestee, a trend that will be discussed in section III.

To ensure the integrity of responses, participants were required to authenticate with a valid Google account and required to fill in their username. This information was cross-referenced with in-game playtime data to ensure that voters were not alternative accounts or bots. No specific responses or set of responses were endorsed or encouraged by Crystal Analytics and to the best of Crystal Analytics' ability written in a manner to collect true information.

Results of this poll were originally planned to be anonymized (usernames removed after the reward was issued and eligibility confirmed) for voter protection, a normal practice for Crystal Analytics when data collection concerns elections. Outside of Crystal Analytics staff, the requestee was not to be shown the usernames of participants (unless their staff is a part of Crystal Analytics staff). Due to the court order in the Socialist Party of the People v. Department of State, records of usernames will be made available.

II. Results

This was conducted on a sample set of 14, which represents ~10% of the average electorate total in the past 3 House of Representatives elections (143 avg.)

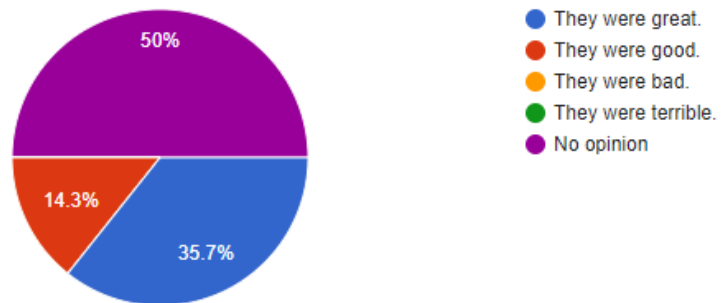

This poll was administered by Crystal Analytics staff and includes a sample set of varying factors, such as advertisement location and political orientation.

GRAPH:

PRE-INCIDENT RATINGS:

What did you think about the SPP before the election incident?

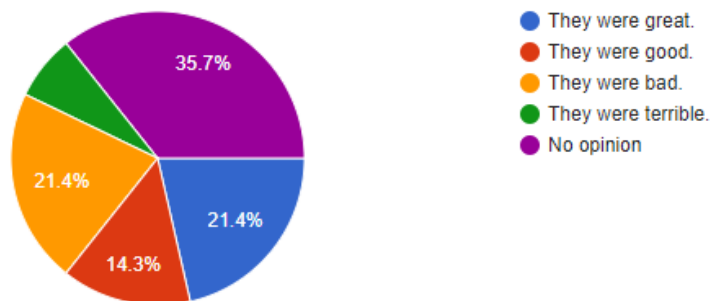

14 responses

POST-INCIDENT RATINGS:

What did you think about the SPP after the election incident?

14 responses

This poll was administered by Crystal Analytics staff and includes a sample set of varying factors, such as advertisement location and political orientation.

TABLE:

Entries flagged in yellow were players not meeting 12 hours of playtime in the past 30 days. They have not been disqualified from the poll as their opinion as future electors is still relevant, this is merely a courtesy to the Defense.

Timestamp	What is your username?	What did you think about the SPP before the election incident?	What did you think about the SPP after the election incident?	If you changed your mind, why?
11/9/2021 10:24:24	Eastray_	They were great.	They were great.	I don't change, SPP has always been doing great, because it the part of the people!

III. Conclusion

The average rating of the Socialist Party of the People fell from 3.8 (Input turned into numerical values on a 1-5 scale, 3 being no opinion) to 3.2. This is a 15% decrease in rating, significant to the SPP's voting base of 19 votes (per the last standard House election), bringing them to 16 votes, which may make the difference between a seat. It is Crystal Analytics' prediction that this will have an impact on the current House of Representatives election and may impact future elections as well.

It is also prevalent in the graph that the overall likeability of the party decreased, that those with opinions became less opinionated, and that positive opinions decreased. This is sample set also had many who were uninformed of the specific electoral incident, they were told to research the issue briefly (via records in the Discord) before responding to reduce ignorance as a result of data issues.

Scale (for reference):

5	They were great.
4	They were good.
3	No opinion.
2	They were bad.
1	They were terrible.
