COMMONWEALTH OF REDMONT

CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION

Formation Instrument of KeystoneLaw

This Certificate of Incorporation establishes KeystoneLaw as an entity of the Commonwealth of Redmont and records the authority structure under which the entity operates.

Legal name: KeystoneLaw

Entity form: Corporation

Jurisdiction: Commonwealth of Redmont

Incorporator and controlling person: amah853

Date of execution: November 5, 2026

1. Formation

The incorporator forms the entity named KeystoneLaw as a corporation under the applicable law of the Commonwealth of Redmont. The entity may conduct lawful legal, advisory, document, corporate, and related professional services within the DemocracyCraft and Redmont legal system.

2. Purpose and powers

KeystoneLaw may enter contracts, hold and manage property, employ or engage personnel, establish client and matter relationships, maintain financial accounts, issue or record ownership interests, and take any other lawful action reasonably related to its purpose. The entity may operate through officers, associates, agents, and other authorized representatives.

3. Ultimate control and reserved authority

amah853 is the ultimate controlling person of KeystoneLaw. Subject to mandatory applicable law, amah853 retains final authority over the entity, its property, its contracts, its personnel, its clients, its finances, its governance records, and its public or private decisions.

The powers reserved to amah853 include the power to appoint, remove, direct, limit, replace, or overrule officers, directors, associates, agents, and other representatives; approve or reject entity actions; issue binding instructions; amend or replace this instrument; and determine whether, when, and how any recommendation is implemented.

4. Advisory Board of Directors

KeystoneLaw may maintain a Board of Directors for consultation, discussion, institutional memory, and advisory voting. The Board of Directors is advisory only. Board membership, voting percentages, motion results, majority calculations, vetoes, override votes, and other Board records represent internal advice and do not independently bind KeystoneLaw or create authority to act for the entity.

A Board vote does not transfer control from amah853, compel an action, create a contract, alter ownership, authorize a payment, appoint or remove personnel, or change an entity decision unless amah853 separately approves or adopts that result. The Board may recommend an outcome, but amah853 may accept, reject, modify, delay, reverse, or disregard the recommendation at any time.

5. Voting percentages

Any percentages assigned to Board members are advisory voting weights only. They may be used to display the relative strength of recommendations, summarize internal sentiment, and calculate advisory outcomes. They are not shares of legal ownership, do not constitute voting stock, and do not limit amah853's authority.

6. Motions, vetoes, and overrides

A Board motion, an Executive Veto, a motion to override a veto, and any result shown by the entity's records are internal governance records. They describe the advisory process and preserve an auditable history of recommendations. None of those records has binding effect by itself.

amah853 may issue, withdraw, modify, affirm, or disregard a veto or override result; end or reopen an advisory motion; change the treatment of an advisory recommendation; or direct the entity to take a different course. A Board threshold, including a percentage threshold for an override, is a rule for measuring advisory support and is not a legal restriction on amah853's control.

7. Representation and delegation

No director, officer, associate, employee, or agent may bind KeystoneLaw solely by holding a title or by receiving an advisory vote. Authority to represent or bind the entity must come from amah853, from a written delegation approved by amah853, or from another source of authority that is mandatory under applicable law.

8. Ownership records

Any internal record of shares, percentages, beneficiaries, or other economic or governance interests is maintained subject to this instrument and applicable law. Such records do not diminish amah853's reserved control or convert the advisory Board into a binding governing body.

9. Amendment and continuity

amah853 may amend, restate, replace, suspend, or revoke this Formation Instrument to the extent permitted by applicable law. If any provision conflicts with a mandatory rule of the Commonwealth of Redmont, that rule controls only to the extent of the conflict, and the remaining provisions continue in effect.

10. Certification

The undersigned incorporator certifies that the information in this Formation Instrument is adopted as the governing formation record for KeystoneLaw and that the authority structure stated above reflects the entity's intended operation.

Incorporator / controlling person	Date
amah853	November 5, 2026

Filed as a Formation Instrument for KeystoneLaw. This document records the entity's internal authority structure and is intended for use with the Commonwealth of Redmont entity filing process.