Your Honour,

Pursuant to Rule 4.6 and during the Court-granted extension of Discovery, Plaintiff respectfully submits:

P-010 — August 13, 2026 Client Log Excerpt

P-010 is an excerpt from Plaintiff's contemporaneous Minecraft client log for August 13, 2026. Plaintiff has preserved the original compressed client log in its original form.

The log records events surrounding Plaintiff's arrest and confinement associated with Crime Record #20869, including:

10:26:58 — Plaintiff is notified that he is being cuffed by paper_cute;

10:27:34 — Plaintiff is informed of the three Bank Robbery charges and receives the associated warning;

10:27:52 — the server records the $14,400 fine;

10:27:54 — Plaintiff enters confinement;

10:29:38 — Plaintiff contemporaneously asks how to dispute the charges and states that he did not rob any banks;

10:53:31 — the server generates the message: "You died! You have been taken back to Prison."

11:02:11 — the server continues to restrict Plaintiff because he remains jailed;

11:46:35 — the server states: "You've been released from jail!"; and

INSERT P-010 HERE
[/SPOILER]

Plaintiff submits P-010 for the limited purpose of providing contemporaneous evidence concerning the arrest, punishment, confinement, death while incarcerated, continued confinement, and eventual release associated with the convictions challenged in this action.

Plaintiff previously alleged that he was physically attacked by another player while incarcerated. P-010 does not, standing alone, identify the person responsible for Plaintiff's death or independently establish its precise cause. Plaintiff may testify regarding what occurred, and Plaintiff's previously filed Rule 4.7 request seeks any available server-side combat, damage, prison, police, or plugin records that may further corroborate the incident.

P-010 is also relevant to Plaintiff's existing claims concerning Loss of Enjoyment and Worsening of Conditions to the extent that any portion of the underlying confinement is ultimately determined to have been unlawful.

Plaintiff is not submitting P-010 as evidence of a separate Miranda violation. The log reflects that a warning was given following Plaintiff's arrest.

In light of this newly located contemporaneous record, Plaintiff withdraws Item 7 of his pending Rule 4.7 request concerning notification/Miranda records as no longer necessary. Plaintiff maintains the remaining Rule 4.7 requests.
